

SAFE LAWNS ENVIRONMENTAL POLICY

For a number of years, Lawn Master have been concerned with environmental issues and safety regarding products, equipment and operator competence.

- As a company, we are confident that we offer not only the most superior lawn treatment service available, but we also offer the safest.
- At lawn Master, we work harder and make a conscientious effort to reduce totally unnecessary pesticide applications wherever possible, and when they are no longer required, we prefer to concentrate on natural soil stimulants instead.
- In 1999, we were the first lawn treatment company to invest in proper domestic trials of safer organic lawn feeds to afford the customer more choice.
- In 1999 and again in 2003 we carried out a complete review of all pesticides used by the company, taking the very latest information and recommendations available a step further.
- When a list of 81 chemicals were withdrawn from sale in 2003, it did not affect our company in the slightest, as we were not using any of them.
- As a result of our innovation and greater knowledge, Lawn Master only use the safest products on the market, rather than the most economical.
- For example, Lawn Master never uses 24D as a base weed killer, which is one of the most widely used with lawn companies. We have discovered other products that are a safer alternative.
- Because of this, you know you are in safe hands with Lawn Master! At the time of writing this site in November 2004, you will not find any other Lawn company in the U.K with an advertised environmental policy of any kind, other than Lawn master.
